

The best way to measure success is to set clear goals that align with the mission of your organization.